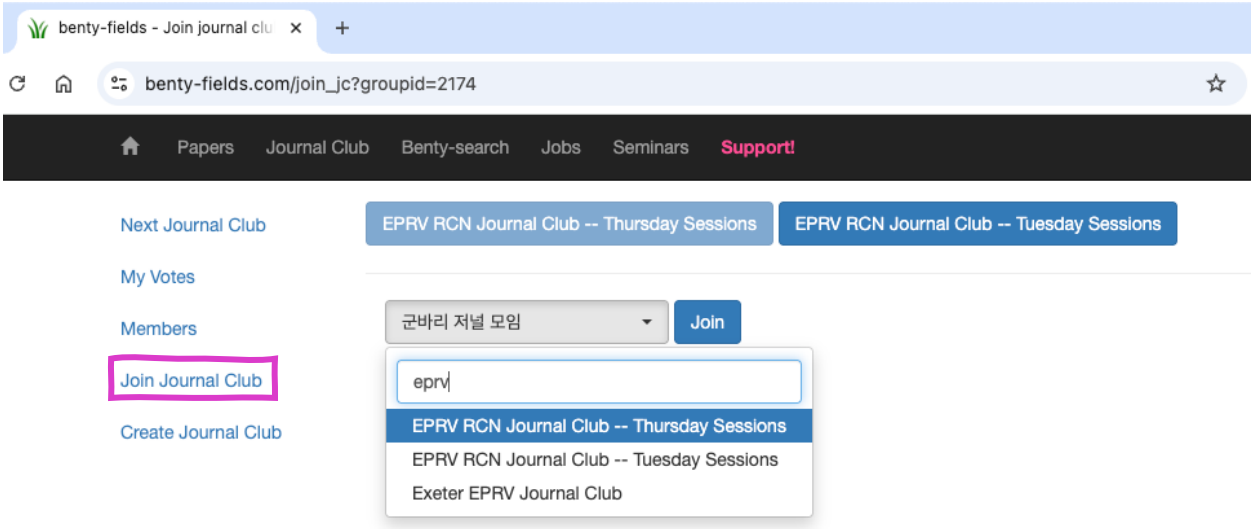
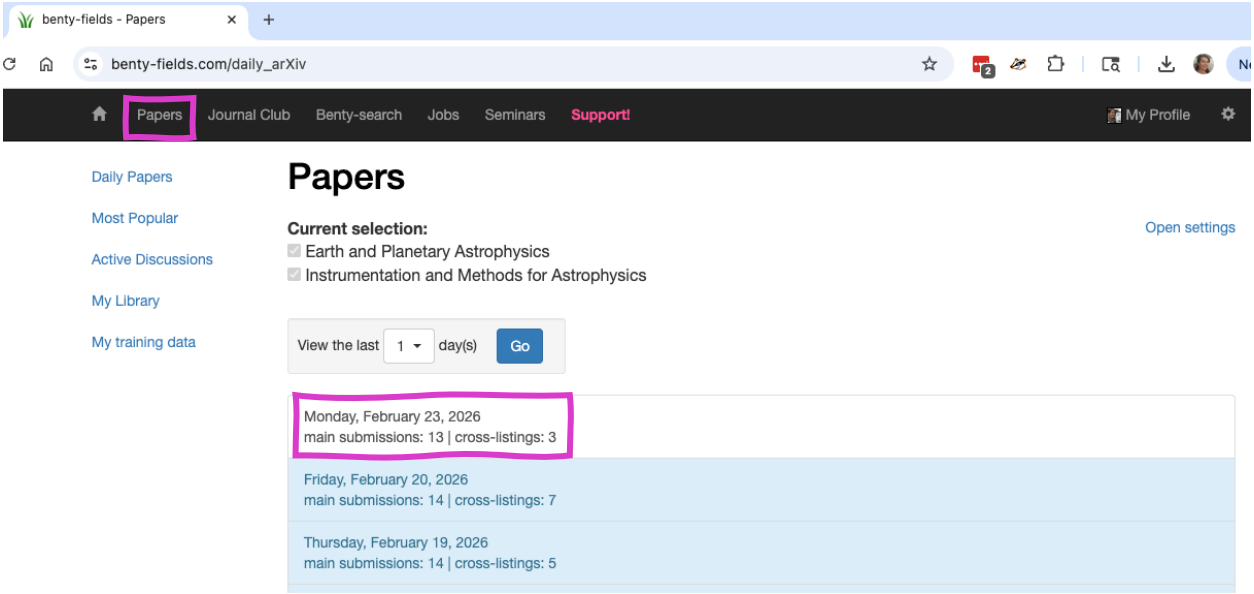
1. Joining the RCN Journal Club(s)

Once you've set up a free account on Benty-Fields, you can navigate to the Join Journal Club page and use the drop-down box to search for 'EPRV' which will bring up both RCN journal clubs. You can then join either / both to make sure you can vote on papers, volunteer to lead discussion, and get updates!

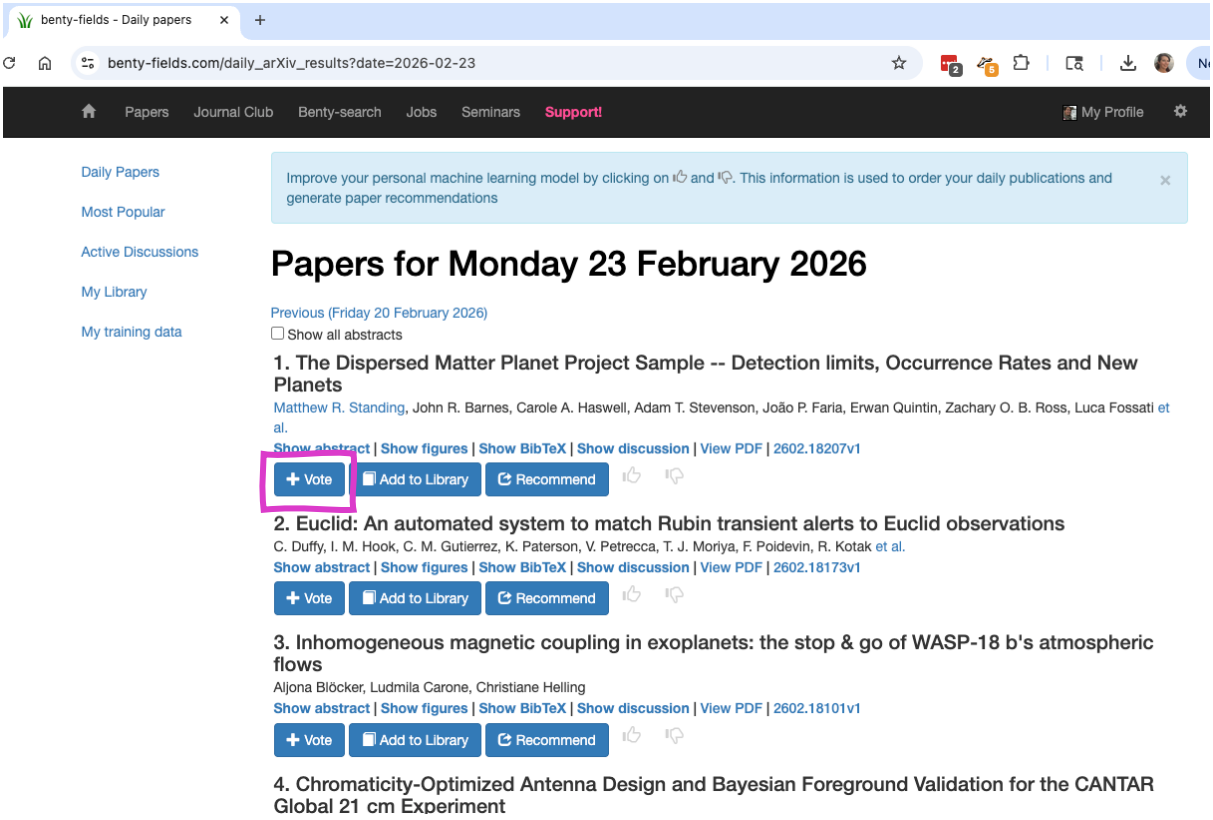


2. Voting for Papers

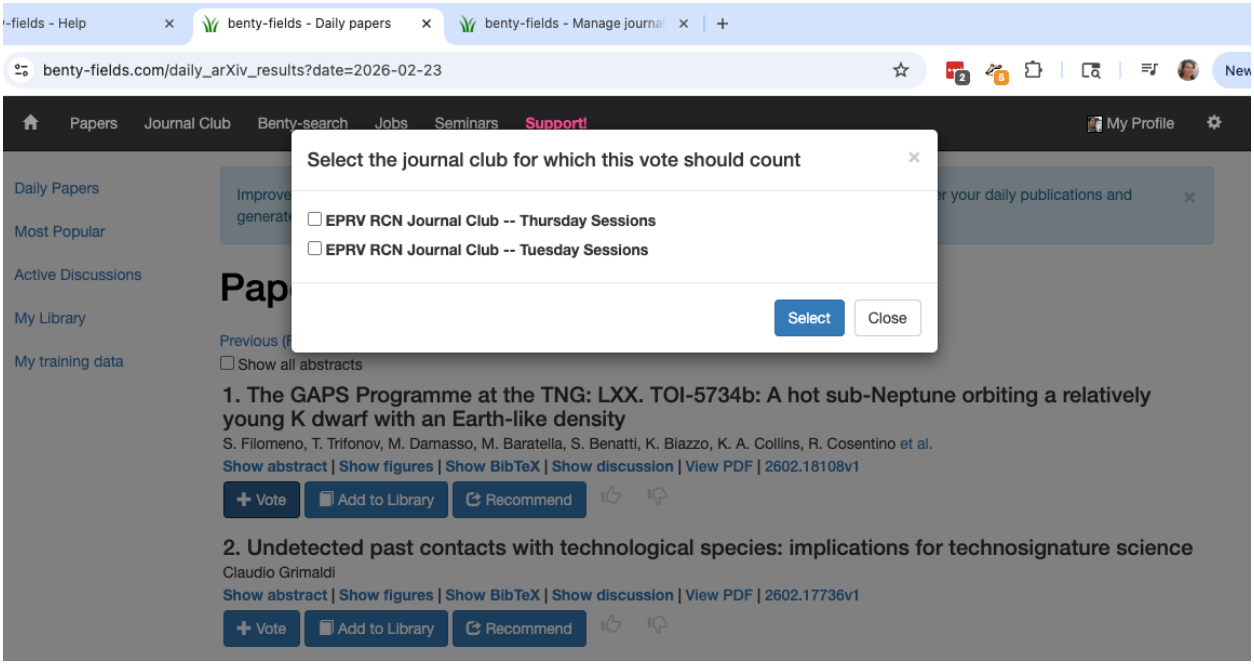
Visit the Papers page on Benty-Fields which will list arXiv papers by day. Click on a specific date to see the entries matching your areas of interest (first identified when you created your account)



Within each day you'll see all of the arXiv entries that fall within your arXiv areas of interest, and you can click the 'Vote' button on any that you think would be a good fit for the EPRV journal club.

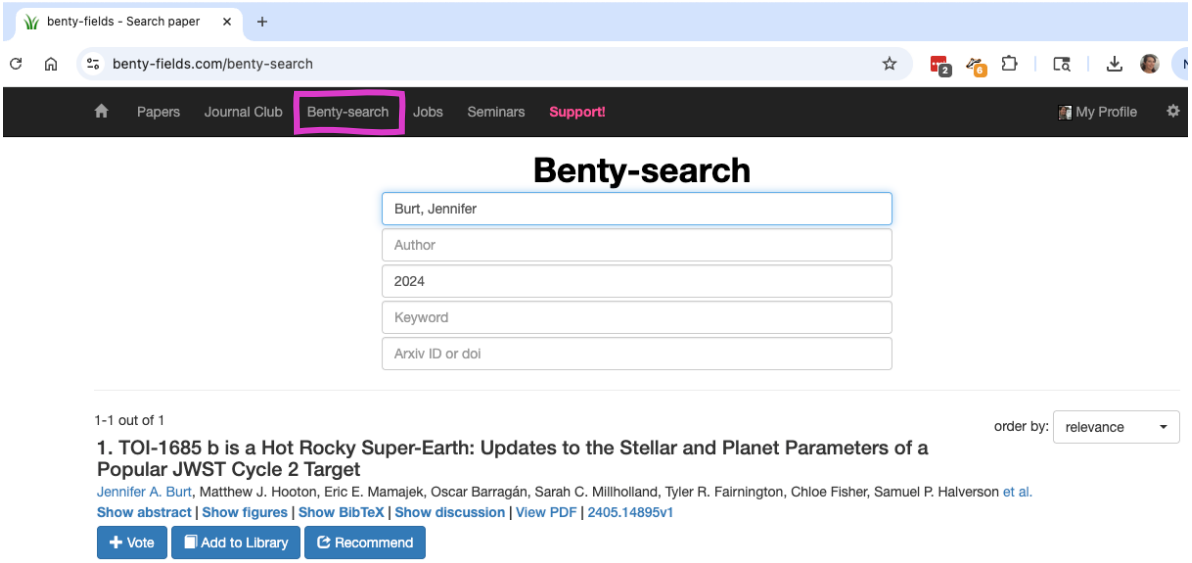


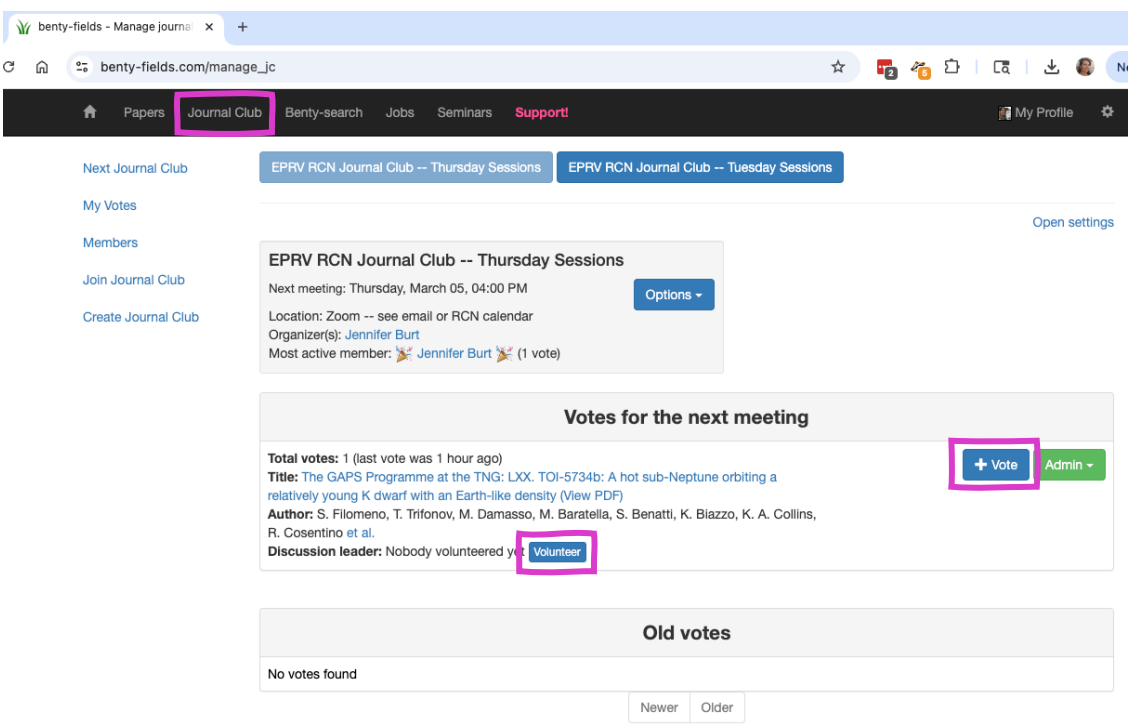
If you're signed up for more than one journal club, clicking 'Vote' will bring up a box where you can specify which club you want that paper assigned to



2b. Finding Older Papers

Use the "Benty-Search" button in the top navigation bar to bring up a search interface that will look through all of arXiv for papers based on the authors, the year, the DOI, or specific keywords. Once you find the specific paper you're looking for, the voting process is the same as for the daily paper results.



3. Looking at the Journal Club's paper suggestions


If you click on the "Journal Club" button in the top navigation bar it will take you to the organizing page for the clubs you belong to and you can see what other papers folks have voted for (and add your own votes) and you'll also be able to Volunteer to lead the discussion on any of the papers that have been suggested.
